

ACOUSTICS 101

Provider: Conwed
Program: Acoustics 101
Length: 1.0 hour
Level: Introductory

Course #: 1
Credits: Nonaccredited Course

Description: Offices and hospitals with unmanaged noise silently impact the health and wellbeing of their occupants. The simple understanding of how noise works and impacts the healing process or simple day-to-day tasks in the office will shift your perspective, and help you envision easy acoustic solutions into your designs.

Learning Objectives:

- Participants will learn the basics of acoustics and how to differentiate key terms and phrases.
- Participants will understand why managing sound in modern buildings not only helps with the design but the health and safety of those utilizing their consciously developed space.
- Participants will learn how to manage the sonic spectrum with easy to understand solutions.
- Participants leave with the knowledge to identify when and where acoustic solutions are needed and increase the quality of life for people in their environments.
